

Joseph Giorlando Poems

A close-up photograph of a purple and white lily flower. The flower is the central focus, with its petals in shades of light purple and white. A gold-colored necklace with a cross pendant is draped across the flower and extends towards the bottom right corner of the image. The background is a soft, out-of-focus white surface. A horizontal purple band is overlaid across the middle of the image, containing the title and author's name in white text.
